

Insurance that grows as fast as your business

When your business is scaling fast, your risk profile isn't what it was 12 months ago – or when you first partnered with your broker. It begs the question – has your broker evolved with you?

Why traditional brokers fall short

High-growth companies like yours are experiencing rapid change at a rapid pace: new markets, bigger teams, more complex operations. Yet you might find that your brokers often stay silent, only reaching out at renewal time.

This outdated approach can leave your venture underinsured, overpaying, or worse – both.

Risk changes as you grow

As your headcount increases, revenue grows, and infrastructure matures, so do your exposures:

- Changing employment practices liability
- Sophisticated cyber threats
- Global expansion risks

If your broker isn't up to speed with your journey, your policies may no longer affect your needs.

Don't wait for renewal – take control now

Switching brokers may seem like a headache, but it doesn't have to be. With a simple Letter of Appointment (LoA), you can switch anytime – quickly, seamlessly, and without an awkward conversation with your current broker.
